1. The communication process and barriers to it

Communication is the process of transmitting a message from sender to receiver so it is understood as intended: sender encodes → transmits via a channel → receiver decodes → feedback confirms understanding. Common barriers: physical, language, perceptual/psychological, and organisational.

Sample of the practice examination (Question One of Five)

Note on format. The full paper includes a complete practice examination laid out the way a real KASNEB CS paper is laid out — timed, five compulsory 20-mark questions — so you can rehearse the exact exam format before sitting the real thing. This is an original practice paper, not a reproduction of any actual KASNEB past paper.
